About Town:

Meet the Daniels

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Jon Daniel, who for more than a decade has been the owner and funeral director of West Sacramento's River Cities Funeral Chapel, was born in Minnesota and spent his formative years in the upper Midwest. His father owned a number of funeral homes in the Dakotas, and Jon is a fourth generation funeral director.

JON & TINA DANIEL

"When I was young," recalled Jon, "my job in the family business was to dig the graves. I guess you can say I started from the bottom -- with a pick and shovel."

Jon, who smiles and laughs easily, is comfortable with his chosen profession, but he is also aware that being a funeral director is a job that not everyone can do.

"To begin with," explained Jon, "becoming a funeral director requires quite a bit of intensive schooling, and then that is followed by a two-year apprenticeship. I was fortunate to be able to go to San Francisco's College of Mortuary Science, which is one of the best mortuary schools in the nation. I took classes in biology, micro-biology, chemistry, pathology, anatomy, psychology and accounting. Then you have to take state and national boards, which are very difficult to pass. Only about one in ten who start the whole process actually complete it."

Jon moved to West Sacramento in the 1970s and immediately fell in love with the area.

"West Sacramento is right in the middle of all the things I love to do," said Jon. "The mountains and the ocean are only an hour or two away, and West Sacramento itself has always reminded me of the small Dakota and Minnesota towns I grew up in."

The 1980s started off especially well for Jon because in 1981 he met his wife, Tina.

"We met at a dance in Old Sacramento," remembered Jon. "I liked her right away and I definitely didn't want her to run out the door like other girls had done in the past when I told them I was an embalmer. So, since I have always been in love with the ocean, I decided to tell her a little white lie -- that I was an oceanographer -- and thankfully that worked long enough for us to get to know each other better. To tell you the truth, I never went on another date after I met Tina."

In 1985 Jon and Tina gathered up all the money they had in the world, borrowed a bunch more, and purchased River Cities Funeral Chapel.

"We even had to borrow $100 so we could have a checking account," said Jon, "but with Tina's help, everything has worked out just like we hoped it would. She does all the book work, which is considerable, and I do just about everything else. Unfortunately, most funeral homes are run by corporations now days, and an independent owner like me has to work very hard to be successful. I'm on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week. We've never had an employee, so if something needs to get done, Tina and I have to do it."

Over the years, Jon has come to realize the important contribution a funeral home director can make to a small town like West Sacramento.

"I take my job very seriously," said Jon. "Not only do I strive to be professional and competent at what I do, but I also try very hard to be as sensitive as I can to the needs of the people I serve. Patience, empathy, and concern are not just words to me -- they're a part of my everyday life."

'I definitely didn't want her to run out the door like other girls had done in the past when I told them I was an embalmer. So. . . I decided to tell her a little white lie.'
-- JON DANIEL

Over the years, Jon has watched much of the funeral home business come under the control of corporate chains that can afford to rotate large staffs and share expensive equipment, but he is determined to keep running River Cities Funeral Chapel with the needs of the West Sacramentans he serves in mind.

"I'm a West Sacramento lifer," said Jon, "and I plan on being here a long time. I would like to be able to spend

Frustrated on 6th Street

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Tim Connors of Sun Cal Construction on 6th Street is tired of having people cut through his property and tired of having people throw stones at his building from the railroad tracks above him nearby.

So he has installed a $4,000 fence to keep them out. But because they have cut holes in the fence to preserve their shortcut across the railroad tracks, he has gone a step further: Connors has installed several signs threatening to shoot and kill trespassers.

Does he really intend to shoot anyone?

"If it continues," he said. "That will be for a court and a jury and a district attorney to decide."

Connors said that since the fence was installed, he's seen the number of tresspassers drop "from about 500 a day to about 30 a day."

His business is located on one end of 6th Street in Broderick, where it dead-ends on the south side of the railroad tracks. On the other side of the tracks, 6th Street resumes. People cross the tracks and squeeze through his fence in order to save themselves a detour of a few hundred feet to 5th St.

"Basically, it's cigarette runs (to a nearby market) or beer runs or just going over there," he said. "Everybody does it -- people with baby strollers go right through this hole in the fence. When the train stops, they hand the stroller with the baby in it over the railroad cars."

Connors said the police department tried to help, but couldn't stop the flow of trespassers.

"The cops were here for three or four days and then just quit," he said. "They try to help, but they can't sit here 24 hours a day."

The only real answer to the problem, he feels, is to close off his section of 6th St. at the other end, so there is not point in walking through a hole in the fence near the railroad tracks. He said he hopes the city will just privatize the street and allow his company and its residential neighbors to gate the street.

"If (the city) wants the street back later, they can come in and take the fence down," he said. "In the meantime, why not just do it?"

Youths charged with attempted murder

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

An unidentified man -- possibly a transient -- is hospitalized after being severely beaten by two local youths in an "unprovoked" attack early Sunday morning outside a small Jefferson Blvd. commercial center. Two suspects have been booked into juvenile hall.

"Two juveniles beat the living tar out of this guy," said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "It was unprovoked. Two juvenile West Sacramento residents, age 15 and 17, assaulted this guy."

An officer responding to a report of the assault at the 600-bock of Jefferson Blvd. (across the street from the Safeway center) at 2:45 a.m. saw the two suspects walking away from the scene. With the help of a police dog, one was tracked to Citrus St. and arrested, and the second was found near railroad tracks in the area. They have been charged with attempted murder.

The victim's condition was not available. He had been beaten on the head and body. Police have not yet been able to interview him.

Suspects arrested in Southport mail thefts

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A West Sacramento man has been arrested in connection with the theft of mail from the city's Southport area last week. Police say two residents in the area reported having mail stolen -- and more people may be victims without knowing it.

"We had mail thefts off of Linden Road and Antioch," said Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "During one of the incidents, a subject was seen taking mail out of a mailbox. A witness observed this, followed the vehicle into (the core area of) West Sacramento, and confronted the suspect and got a license plate number."

Farmer reports that Detective Christensen then used the information to identify suspect Bart Lyons, 23, and Lyons was arrested Thursday.

"During this investigation, some mail was also stolen off a Linden Rd. address and suspects attempted to cash a check from a victim over in Sacramento," Farmer added.

Police believe Lyons and possible accomplices in a white van visited the area and took mail from street-side mailboxes.

Anyone who believes they may have information on the crimes, or may be a victim, is asked to call Det. Christensen at 372-2461, ext. 242.

Pair picked up for Southport burglaries

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Two suspects have been arrested in connection with at least three burglaries -- part of a recent wave -- in the Southport area of West Sacramento.

"We had a burglary series in Southport in April," said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Dept. "We just arrested two individuals and identified them in connection with at least three of the burglaries. They were involved in burglaries in other jurisdictions as well."

On Friday, police arrested Malinda Karsner, 19, a Sacramento-area resident.

"We recovered a large amount of jewelry and other items" in the arrest, Farmer reported.

A second suspect was already in custody in Sacramento for burglaries in that area, but will be charged with similar crimes in West Sacramento. Ernest Lujan, 28, has been identified as that suspect.

The burglaries typically occurred in the daytime, with the suspects forcing their way into the homes and making off with items such as money, jewelry, cameras and electronic equipment.

1998 is banner year for city little leagues

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

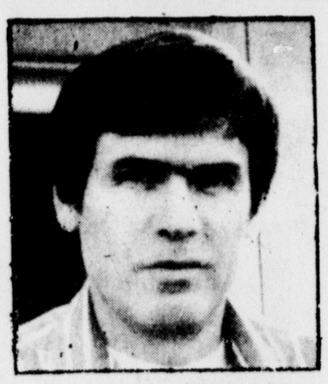

West Sacramento's 11 and 12-year-old Little League All-Stars won the District 6 Championship by defeating Rio Linda this past weekend, 9-7. Paul Holcomb pitched a great game, Caleb Grant hit a home run, Chris Schaffer made a fine catch at shortstop on a hard-hit line drive, Tyler Geivett had a timely 2-run single, and Justin Lucas made a spectacular defensive play in the outfield.

"This is one of the best All-Star teams we've had in West Sacramento in a number of years," said John Zonneveld, one of the team's coaches and a longtime participant in West Sacramento youth baseball. "We've been getting really good pitching, including a perfect game by Chris Schaffer, solid defense, and great hitting up and down the line-up. Mort (Manager Mort Geivett) set down the rules from the very first practice and everyone's attitude has been really good. The players have come together as a team and I'm not surprised that they've been playing so well. They've

Just what kind of a life is a life without children?

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

A very nice work friend of my wife recently cut out an Ann Landers advice column and gave it to her to read. It contained the following poem, which is entitled "Success":

You can use most any measure
When you're speaking of success
You can measure it in fancy home
Expensive car or dress
But the measure of your real success
Is the one you cannot spend
It's the way your kids describe you
When they're talking to a friend.

"That's very nice," I said, handing the piece of paper back to my wife after I had read it.

"Here," said my wife, holding out yet another Ann Landers' column, "I want you to read this one, too."

"Oh, that's okay," I said, politely waving my hand 'no'. "I'm afraid one Ann Landers' column a day is all any human being should be required to read."

"I know you're not an Ann Landers fan," said my wife, "but my friend reads her religiously and she made me promise to give this one to you."

"Why?" I asked, having never even met my wife's work friend.

"Because I give her your newspaper column to read now and then and she really likes it when you talk about the kids," explained my wife. "She says you and Ann Landers think a lot alike when it comes to children."

"That's not possible," I said with emphasis. "I don't think I've ever read an Ann Landers advice column I've agreed with. The poor woman is about 30 or 40 years behind the times -- maybe more."

"Just read it," said my wife, stuffing the piece of newspaper into my one of my hands.

"I will not," I said, giving it back to her.

"Alright," said my wife, determined to keep her promise to her friend, "then I'll just read it to you."

"Okay, okay," I said, realizing that I was going to look a little stupid standing around with my fingers in my ears, "I'll read it. What's it about?"

"It's about the importance of having children in your life," explained my wife. "Some unidentified woman sent it to Ann Landers. Some of it is quite touching."

Knowing that the sooner I started, the sooner I would be done, I quickly began to read, and the three or four paragraphs which caught my attention went like this: "There's nothing sadder than the childless couple. It breaks your heart to see them stretched out, relaxing around swimming pools in Florida and California, suntanned and not having any fun on the decks of boats, trotting off to enjoy Europe like fools -- with money to spend, time to enjoy themselves and nothing to worry about.

"Childless couples become so wrapped up in their own concerns that you feel sorry for them. They don't fight over the kids' discipline. They miss the fun of 'doing without' for the child's sake. It's a pathetic sight. No one should be allowed to escape the wonderful experience attached to each stage in the development of the young. The happy memories of those early years -- saturated mattresses, waiting for sitters who don't show up, rushing to the emergency room to get your child's head stitched up.

"The childless couple lives in a vacuum. They try to fill their lonely lives with dinner dates, theater, golf, tennis, swimming and trips all over the world. The emptiness of life without children is indescribable.

"You can see what the years have done to the childless couple. He looks boyish, unlined and rested. She is slim, well-groomed and youthful. It isn't natural. If they had kids, they'd look like the rest of us -- tired, gray, wrinkled and haggard. In other words, normal."

"So," said my wife after I had finally finished reading, "what did you think of it?"

"Well," I said, "it says here that if we had decided not to have children, we would have tons of money, be taking trips all over the world, be going out to dinner and the theater all the time, and be slim, tanned, rested and youthful looking."

"I know," said my wife.

"Well," I quickly added, "thank God we had four kids and didn't end up miserable like that."

MARNA MILLER:

Miller files for council

West Sacramento resident Marna Miller has announced she will run for one of the two city council seats up for election in November.

Miller, who ran unsuccessfully in 1996, is a community activist who serves as spokesperson for the Maple/Holly neighborhood steering committee and lives in the Meadowdale Park neighborhood. In a press release, she said she is devoted to "assuring your voice be heard, your point of view respected, your concerns answered," and to restoring the public's trust in government by holding government accountable to the people.

Miller joins fellow challenger Jim Cahill in the race. Incumbents Wes Beers (the current mayor) and Christopher Cabaldon (mayor pro tem, or vice mayor) hold the two seats up for election.

Yolo Court expands hours

The Yolo Superior Court has expanded its window service hours for civil matters. The Civil Division now accepts filings for any noncriminal matters form 8 a.m. to 12 p.m., and from 1 to 4 p.m., Mon. through Fri., in room 103 of the county courthouse in Woodland. Noncriminal matters include civil suits, family and probate matters, and small claims.

The court also has a "drop box" service for late filings. Between 4 and 5 p.m., civil filings can be dropped into the door slot of room 103 of the courthouse. "Drop box" papers received by 5 p.m. will be processed the same day, with endorsed copies available to the parties the next court day, or mailed to the parties if the filer provides stamped, addressed envelopes with the filing.

"We've worked to increase services to the public while still meeting the State's strict budget controls for the court. The extended hours add over 20 hours a month that the civil clerks will be available to the public. For those who cannot get to court by 4 p.m., we have the drop box and we also accept filings by fax through US Audotex, a state-approved fax filing service. Everyone should have access to the court regardless of their ability to get to the courthouse during regular hours," said Arline Lisinski, court operations supervisor.

The courthouse is located in downtown Woodland at 725 Court Street. Call Arline Lisinski at (530) 666-8052 for more information.

Cabaldon named chair of Yolo County Transportation District

From the West Sacramento Redevelopment & Housing Agency

The Yolo County Transportation District board of representatives have selected West Sacramento mayor Pro Tem Christopher Cabaldon as its new chairperson. The appointment became effective July 14 and continues for one year.

A special district of four cities (West Sacramento, Davis, Winters and Woodland) and the county comprise the Yolo County Transportation District, which includes representatives from Caltrans and the University of California at Davis. The board has authority over the YoloBus transit system, serving West Sacramento and the county. In addition, the board recommends projects for the state's transportation improvement program. The program currently includes projects on Enterprise Blvd. and I-80, and Harbor Blvd. and Business 80.

While continuing to serve as Mayor Pro Tem of the West Sacramento City Council, Cabaldon will conduct meetings and approve the agenda of the Yolo County Transportation District, appoint members to district subcommittees and sign resolutions and ordinances adopted by the board. He will also remain as the board's representative to the Capitol Corridor Rail Service authority.

Sports Insider –

By Richard Novoa

The Sports Insider is back after a great three week vacation in Europe! I love traveling to foreign lands but in the famous words of Dorothy in "Wizard of Oz", there's no place like home.

From U.S. to Spain, World Cup had its share of flops. Seven coaches lost their jobs. France '98 was filled with flops, from Europe to Africa to Asia to America. The U.S. team, after impressive victories over Brazil and Argentina since the last World Cup, seemed to have the right mixture of experience, youth, speed and creativity. It all fell apart when coach Steve Sampson began to tinker with his veteran line-up. Sampson also cut team captain John Harkes, one of the teams most popular players, and the results were ugly; a 3-0 loss to Germany, an historic 2-1 loss to Iran, and a last place finish overall out of 32 teams. Sampson resigned days later. The French team on the other hand had a stunning 3-0 underdog victory against defending champion Brazil. The whole country was behind the national team. The game was watched by 80,000 delirious fans in Paris and nearly 2 billion more on worldwide television. It was the greatest moment in the history of French sport. Viva la France, the 1998 World Cup Champions!

In the baseball world the San Francisco Giants were five games out of first place and making a move towards first place. I returned from vacation to find the Giants 10 games out of first. After a recent 1-8 road trip the Giants return home for a long home stand. Their pitching staff has been falling apart and their hitters are on vacation. The Giants are now talking about the wild-card spot for the playoffs. Look for a trade with Seattle for pitcher Randy Johnson or maybe a power hitting outfielder! The Giants host Big Mac-Mark McGwire and the St. Louis Cardinals on Wednesday and Thursday, while the Cincinnati Reds close out the weekend at 3 Com Park.

The A's, on the other hand, are playing much better and trail Texas and Anaheim in the Western Division by 7 games. worked really hard to get to this point, and everyone is very proud of them."

Walt Cheechov, another member of the coaching staff said, "What makes this team really special is its ability to produce big innings. They seem to be able to put their hits together and score a lot of runs in one inning, which makes winning a lot easier. They are also a very confident group of kids, and even when they get behind, they don't panic. They've come from behind to win a couple of very important games, and that's always the sign of a good baseball team. Plus they're having fun, so there's no telling how far they might go."

West Sacramento now moves on to Section competition and will play its first game on July 25th at 7:30 p.m. at Twin Oaks Park in Rocklin. For those who would like to attend the game, you take the Rocklin Road exit off of Highway 80, go west on Rocklin Road to Pacific Street, turn left, then turn right on Sunset Boulevard, go approximately 3 miles, turn right on Park Drive, and Twin Oaks Park will be on the left.

Also of note is that Katie Koell is a member of this year's team. According to league officials, she is the first girl to be selected to West Sacramento's 11 and 12-year-old All-Star team in its proud 30 year history.

West Sacramento's 14 and 15-year-old Little League All-Star team was also in action this week, winning their championship game against Washington Little League by a score of 13-8.

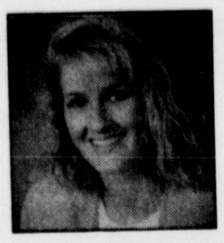

Washington Little League's 9 and 10-year-old All-Stars, as well as their 13-year-old All-Stars, have already won District 6 Championships this year, giving the West Sacramento area one of its very best youth baseball seasons ever.

News-Ledger Editorial

Building city hall

If someone had told the first West Sacramento City Council in 1987, as it sat in rented chambers at what used to be the Port of Sacramento's building on Stone Blvd., that over a decade would pass before the city picked a site to build a "real" city hall, that council would have stared in disbelief.

Back then, it seemed that things would move at a dizzying pace in the young city. The recession hadn't hit, and waves of construction and development were just around the corner, it seemed. Massive amounts of planning had to be put into place right away just to control that growth.

But things didn't exactly work out that way. New cities often find that they have to scale back their expectations, and with the recession of the early '90s, West Sacramento had to develop more patience than most. That patience is needed even today, as little or no major construction is underway in the "prime" real estate of the city's Southport area.

Plans for a new city hall edge forward, however. The city and developer Frank Ramos have a deal "in concept" to swap a couple of properties, leaving West Sacramento with a potential civic center site at Merkley Ave. and West Capitol Ave., adjacent to the Turner branch library.

The site is a good one. With hopes for a community center and senior center, the complex is ambitious. The real test comes as West Sacramento leaders begin to plan the civic center's layout and architecture while keeping an eye on its budget.

Part of the reason the city chose this site in the downtown core is to "make a statement" on West Capitol Ave. -- that blighted strip that is so crucial to the city's future.

By building a city hall, part of that statement will be made. By building a city hall which reflects vision, pride and art, the rest of the statement will follow.

Let's do this once and do it right.

City development

At the July 15 West Sac City Council meeting, we were informed that City sold property across from Money Store (about 2 square blocks) for the same $4.1 million City paid for same. The info came in the form of an answer when I asked about the status of said land when it was not listed on City's "Surplus Land For Sale." So the eyesore buildings Money Store did not like were removed, construction staff used land temporarily and now nice clean, prime business property close to State Capitol is available and City should be better off for that cleanup.

Just a block or so west that now-2-lane-underpass at Welcome Grove Mobile Home Park/Motel is slated to be repaired by next spring, allowing buses to use it once again. But whether we have plans to widen it to 4 lanes, sidewalk and bike lanes at that time, this writer does not know, but it seems to make sense.

City decided it did not have ample space to grant YoloBus' space request for parking, layover, etc. This would seem like the logical time to carve out some bus layover spaces in the overall plan on West Capitol Ave. This would seem like a very wise investment in not only reducing overall parking spaces needed but improving public access to future city and nearby buildings; i.e., make them "transit-oriented," so they provide shelter from extreme heat and rain. Such thinking would reduce smog and reduce competition for what will be limited parking near site of new city hall, community center, and senior center. No specific mention was made of acreage across West Capitol Ave., but surely it will be at least used for multi-level parking like what's just been built near the Money Store.

And it sounds like West Sac will start using parking meters very soon, especially near the Money Store, mainly for parking control. An end to all day free parking for those working downtown Sacramento, it would seem. Future developers of that 3rd and C double-block would be wise to include much extra parking in their plans. Also, a mini-office with "Welcome to West Sacramento (and here's where you go for this, that and the other things)" should be conspicuous coming off Tower Bridge westwards.

Sounds like the Ramos family is willing to trade their property near library for the Tower Court land and that sounds reasonable. And it is the El Rancho Bowl, which the West Sac Lions' Club plans to improve upon and the result will be a recreation center, at least on an interim basis until City has something better. Hopefully, we will have some public hearing-type meetings for the express purpose of giving public a chance to let City Council know specifics public would like to see incorporated in the final product...they are there to serve the public, right?

And once City gets started on such a multi-project plan, private investors need not wait until City projects are complete before submitting their plans and beginning their construction. In fact, the sooner such plans submitted, the more accurate City staff can plan improvements in the infrastructure and to what degree.

The following is an open letter to Mayor Wesley Beers and members of the West Sacramento City Council:

The East Yolo Friends of the Library has learned with interested of the City's imminent plans for a Civic Facilities Project.

The Friends of the Library requests that the Council establish a process for planning for the community center which will include opportunities for input from those affected. This includes downtown merchants, the library, seniors and the general public which will use the facilities. This input can be a valuable addition to the technical professional staff of the City and departments to be included.

We believe that the support of the Friends and library users can assist the city and the downtown business association in securing the best possible plan for our common future. The Friends have had experience in the past which demonstrates the effectiveness of their studied approach to building problems. The Friends agonized to secure their first rented facility on Merkley, then worked to secure revenue sharing for building the Turner library on donated land on Merkley, which sets a high standard for public buildings. The library will need to expand to meet growth and needs to have these needs considered in the city's plans for the civic center.

We suggest an agenda item for discussing this and look forward to working with you on securing the best possible city center for our new city. We would welcome opportunities to visit examples of other city centers that can give ideas to give our city the identity which we all want.

From candidate Marna Miller

On Thursday I proceeded to the Secretary of States office to file for election papers and a registration number. Then left there to get things done on the city level. It is a great thing that we have a great City Clerk, Helen Kanowsky, who is very thorough, or I would already be having problems with the Fair Political Practices Commission (FPPC) over election rigamorale. Thinking that state workers all do their job as well as some of the people I am acquainted with was my error. I called the FPPC last week to make sure that there were no changes and to recheck procedures on what gets done and in what order.

"Ma! It's the Board of Health! Come out with your hands washed!"

First off, the lady on the phone misinformed me on the most important document needed first. When I mentioned it on my return trip to tidy things up, the department head was not even interested. She did not care that the clerk of the day had failed to give me all the forms I needed, nor that the telephone information of the previous week was wrong. And, after the problems of '96, the FPPC basically told people calling about voting problems to "find and talk to someone who really cares" because they don't do anything. (And I now agree.)

The FPPC has a seminar monthly after you are started running. A seminar I attended in the spring was legally changed a week later, yet they failed to up date those who attended about changes. Signing up five times for FPPC bulletins did me no good. Everyone working with me gets theirs, but I have only received two in three years. Luckily, others mark theirs up and give them to me to read.

This story only starts my story. While at the Secretary of States office on 11th and "O," fourth floor (in case you wish to go and see for yourself), the clerk pulled the Campaign Contribution Sheets for the six big political races for me. Now starts the knowing why our country's money is being given away to other countries, Developers, special interest groups, Projects, etc. Politicians do not want campaign reform. It would allow common people to make public the irresponsible ways the government has of doing business. It would take the extortion capacity out of politics.

Getting back to contributions. A high estimate of contributions from average working people was less than three percent. Doug Ose just wrote himself a check for a million dollars and spent it but did raise money from business owners, medical groups, real estate brokers, lots of attorneys, and some department heads. Sandra Dunn had contributions from many Arizona business owners (?), and other out-of-state people (?), making we wonder where her loyalty would be. She had "water" related employees, which means she will go along with the CalFed robbery of our water to give to Southern California. Lundgren had a little of everything. Grey Davis was the unusual find, in my mind. Being a Democrat to me he would have had many small fundraisers all over the place like Lundgren, but with more common people. In the inch-thick group which I went through, there were less than ten working-class people who donated. Brokers, real estate business owners, attorneys, attorneys, doctors, attorneys, developers, Sony and Warner, water employees, state department heads, company owners, ranchers and five to ten average people. Average working people do not donate five hundred to a thousand dollars or five thousand dollars. Why would they? Voters have that naive belief that politicians should do their job and not succumb to influence. Well, the ethical way of doing business is over in today's politics. You used to vote for people because you knew what they would do and what they stood for so you gave them a few dollars because you could trust them to look out for the public.

After looking through those papers, my voice chocked for three hours when trying to tell what I had just read. After three hours I just went back to the numb stage with the undercurrent of disgust.

Well here it goes. Off and running (for office). Or rolling in my case. West Sacramento needs policies set in order, so that we do not become like Sacramento as we grow up. Sort of nurturing and guiding, like you would your children, so that they become people that are respected, as opposed to the bully down the street, or in this case across the river. We are growing and improving as a city, but we should not be stepping on people in order to succeed.

At an open house for Money Store Employees this weekend, I was asked how I liked their building. I said our tax dollars in West Sacramento have greatly benefited the Money Store. And believe me, on the tour of the building, the view from the eighth floor knocks your socks off and warms your heart. Our city looks immensely beautiful from every floor on every side. My friend who works at the store told her friends that she hears my remark weekly. They replied that more business wasn't necessary for the health of West Sacramento. The Money Store enhances the river front facade. However, if you gave most business people 20 million dollars to start with, they would build something nice -- just maybe not this nice.

more time with my family, but that's not always possible. The funeral home business can be very demanding, and it certainly isn't for everyone, and quite honestly, there's parts of it a person never really gets used to, but it's also very rewarding to be in a position where I can help people when they need it the most."

Jon tries not to get too emotionally involved in his work but there are times when that is simply not possible. "It's especially difficult when children are involved," explained Jon, "or when a mother or father pass away much too young, but I just try to do my best, and the families always seem to sense that. There are a lot of wonderful people in this little town of ours, and I'm very proud to call it home."

Jon and Tina have two children, Jon Roger, who is 14-years-old, and Cecily, who is 11. Cecily goes to Our Lady of Grace School, and Jon Roger will be attending Jesuit High School in the fall.

LEGAL NOTICE
JOB TRAINING PARTNERSHIP ACT WAIVERS AND PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD

The Yolo County Private Industry Council opened a public comment period to receive comments on waivers to the Job Training Partnership program. The Job Training Partnership program provides employment and training services to youth and adults in Yolo County. In some cases the waivers reduce cost of administration by combining tracking functions, and in other cases the waivers eliminate program requirements in order to provide a wider range of employment and training services to the consumer. If you would like to comment on the waivers please contact Terri Jessen at (530) 661-2939 or send your written comments to Community Partnership Agency, 112 West Main Street, Woodland, CA 95695, attention May Ko. The Private Industry Council will review all comments and take action on the JTPA waivers on August 19, 1998 at 3:15 p.m. at Davis Veteran Memorial Building.

The State wide mandatory waivers are:

1. Reduce the cost categories to two, administrative and program, for all programs.
2. Replace the Youth Entered Employment Rate and Youth Employability Enhancements.
3. Replace Title III post-program follow-up requirements with Unemployment Insurance (UI) base wage file matching.

The nine optional waivers are:

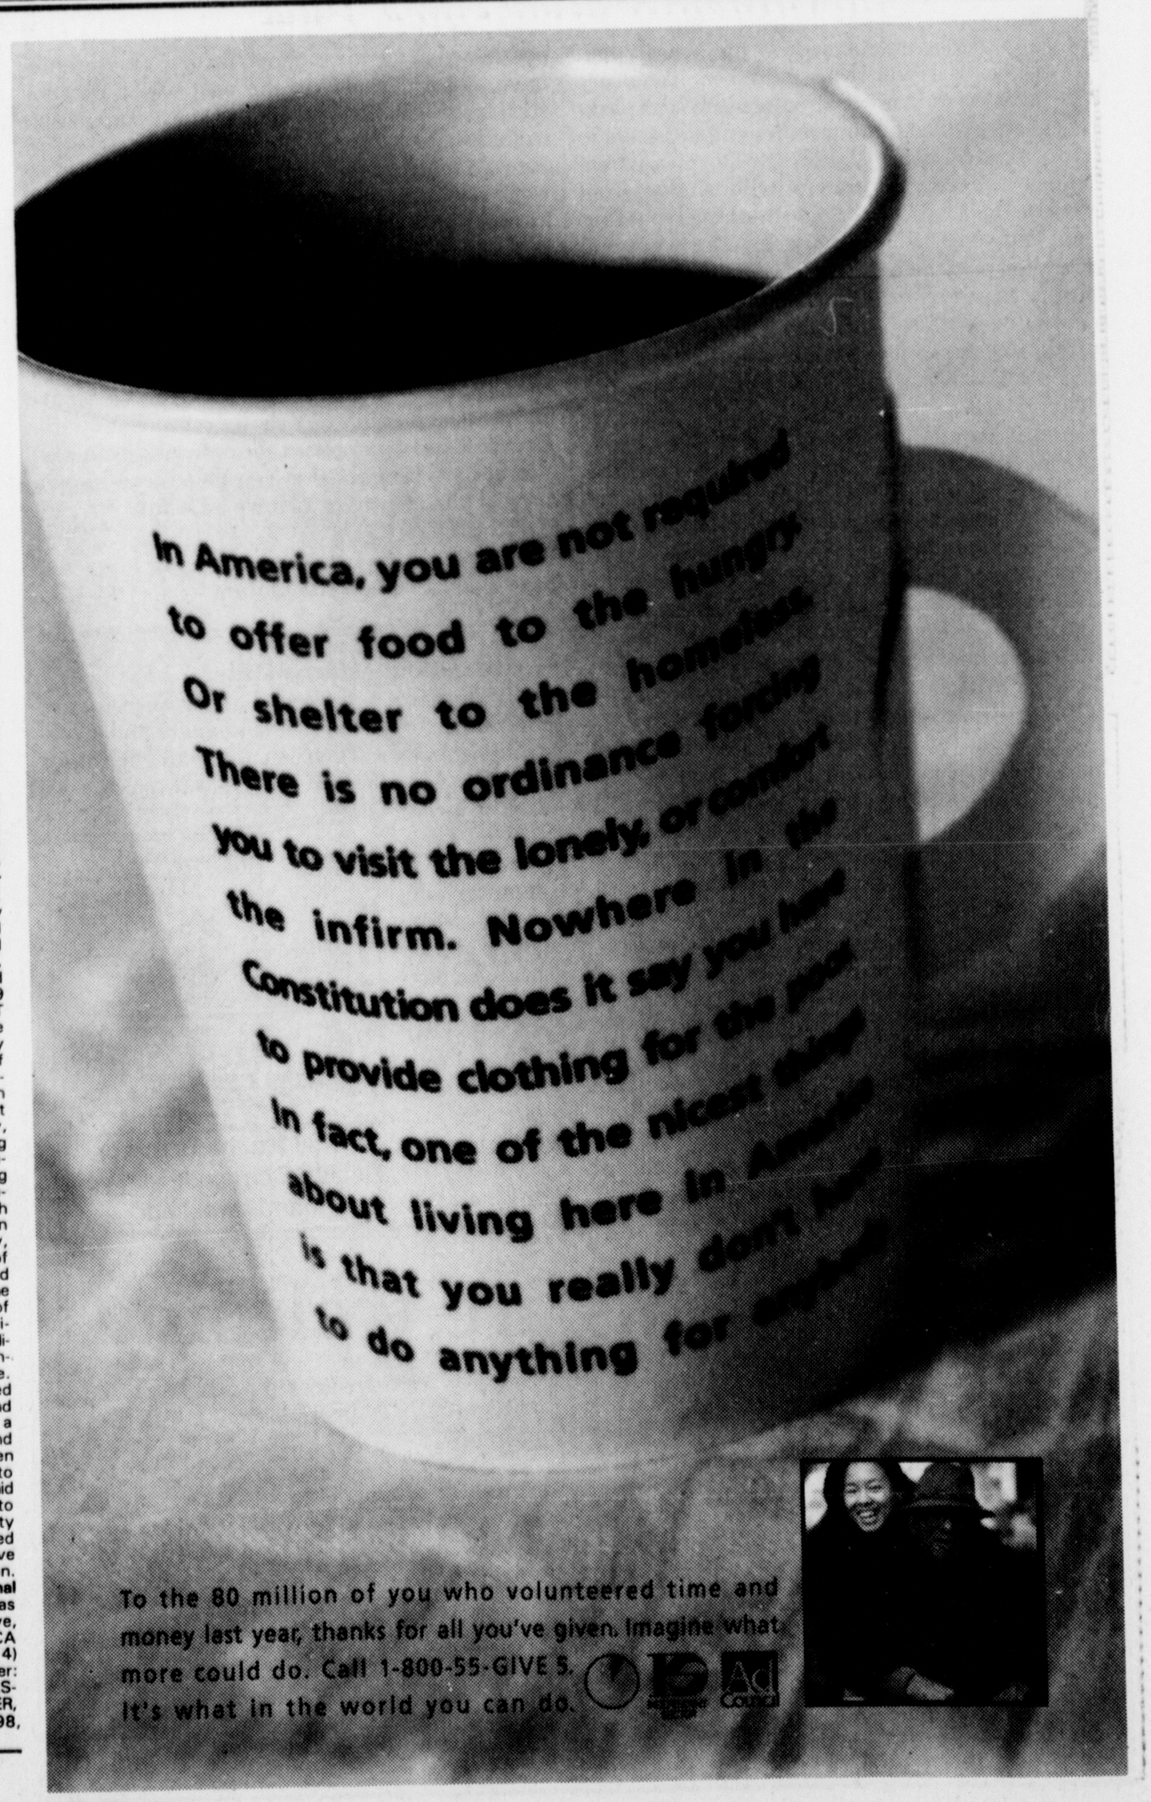

1. Allow stand-alone job search, job search assistance and work experience for all youth and adults.
2. Allow post-termination services and training, including On-the-Job Training (OJT), for up to one year for all titles.
3. Exclude Social Security Disability Income (SSDI) as income in determining eligibility for Title II services.
4. Waive the requirement that youth OJT assignments must pay the average adult wage.
5. Allow flexibility to offer the full range of employability enhancement training to all youth, regardless of age.
6. Allow a 10 percent window for Title IIB, Summer Youth Employment and Training (SYETP) program, consistent with the Title IIC, year round programs.
7. Allow prescribed use of limited JTPA Title II and Title III funds for employment generating activities.
8. Exclude persons who transfer to another JTPA program for continuation of services from the calculation of the Entered Employment Rate for the title from which they were transferred.

Woman's body identified

The mysterious victim of an apparent homicide, whose body was discovered in a Clarksburg slough June 25, has been identified as Meuy Yaan Saelee of Merced.

Saelee, 20, leaves behind a two-year old child and was known to frequent the Sacramento area.

The Yolo Co. Sheriff-Coroner's office announced the identification last week, but had no additional information on the investigation. The cause of death for the woman was determined to be asphyxiation due to suffocation, and the victim's head was covered with a material that could have caused the suffocation.

Anyone with possible information on the crime is asked to call the sheriff's department, (530) 668-5280.

Girl drowns in river accident

An eight-year old West Sacramento girl drowned Sunday while swimming at Sand Cove Park on the Sacramento River near I-80 and the Garden Highway.

Bystander Nina Parker of Sacramento spotted one girl struggling in the current, and she and her daughter pulled the child to shore. When the girl started breathing again, she said that a young friend was missing in the river.

The body of eight year old Kaefarm Saejao was found later that evening by divers.

The two children had slipped from a sandbar into the river's current.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DORIS MAE BOMBACH
CASE NUMBER: P98000181

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Doris mae Bombach:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Guy G. Gibson, Jr., in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Guy G. Gibson, Jr. be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on August 5, 1998, at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 7, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court Street, Woodland 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

County raises fees for land fill disposal

The Yolo County Board of Supervisors has approved landfill fee changes at the Central Landfill and Esparto Convenience Center. These fee changes will become effective July 24. Some fee categories have been changed to make it easier for landfill users to calculate their charges. Other fees have been increased or lowered to reflect the county's actual cost for providing the described disposal service(s).

The landfill's $36 per ton disposal fee for weighed loads of solid waste is not changing. However, the landfill's flat fees for autos and pickups are increasing to bring disposal costs in line with the $36 per ton fee charged for weighed loads. Fees are increasing at the Esparto facility to bring disposal costs in line with the more than $75 per ton cost to transport and dispose of waste brought to this facility.

For questions regarding fees, please call the landfill at (530) 666-8729.

Precise schedule is a secret:

First of scheduled nuclear waste trains rolls through town

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

By the time you read this, a controversial train carrying spent nuclear fuel will probably already have passed through West Sacramento on its way to Idaho Falls, Idaho, where the fuel rods will be stored until a permanent home is found.

West Sacramento Police Chief Larry Gore said that state, federal and local agencies -- including public safety personnel in West Sacramento -- have prepared carefully for the train's passage.

"We've done an awful lot of planning," said Gore. "Hopefully, it will be uneventful."

The exact schedule of the train is being kept secret for security reasons, but Gore confirmed that he and other West Sacramento public safety managers had been alerted to the train's exact schedule.

The nuclear wastes include spent nuclear fuel from South Korea which was expected to arrive in San Francisco Bay Tuesday. It was then scheduled to be loaded onboard a special train to begin a journey inland through the Sacramento area and into the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Peace activists and anti-nuclear activists have planned protests of the train's journey, but no group has threatened to disrupt its passage through California.

As of 5 p.m. last night, the ship bearing the spent fuel rods still hadn't arrived at Concord Naval Weapons Station for the cargo to be transferred to the train. The radioactive fuel rods will be inside protective cannisters designed for safety and security.

The project is being handled by the U.S. Department of Energy.
